Jiaming Sun, Scott Lancaster : Chinese Globalization: A Profile of People-Based Global Connections in China (Routledge Contemporary China Series) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Chinese Globalization: A Profile of People-Based Global Connections in China (Routledge Contemporary China Series):

This book examines the explicit effects of global connectivity on local culture and society in post-reform mainland China. It focuses on individual level globalization in China and how global socialization impacts local residents' behaviors, lifestyle, value orientation and the consequence of local transformation. Asking questions such as: What types of individual global connections have emerged and developed in China over the last three decades? What aspects of local transformations are influenced by such global connections? How does the impact of global connections vary across different aspects of local communities and institutions? Jiaming Sun uses an original micro-level relational approach to analyse how different types of individual global connections may make a difference and constitute certain outcomes of local transformation, the outcome being that global connections are capable of facilitating local transformation across different spatial, economic, and cultural settings.

"The book is a welcome addition to scholarship on globalization and on China and the nexus between the two" - Danielle Tan, Institute for East Asian Studies, Lyon, France, China Information About the Author Jiaming Sun is Professor at the School of Social Development and Public Policy at Fudan University, China and, a tenured Associate Professor in the Department of Sociology and Criminal Justice at Texas AM University-Commerce, USA.
