Neerja Malik, Megha Bajaj : I Inspire before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised I Inspire:

Megha Bajaj's pen captures Neerja's child like enthusiasm, her never-say-die attitude and the innate courage to face life simply because of one essential quality - to see life as pure magic. "When one comes to term with death, can one actually live," is a great formula for acceptance of destiny as well as the courage to transform pain into gain. How to deal with pain within oneself and how to share it with others including your own children - much to learn, much to learn. A story which surely touches the inner core of the human spirit and its battles.

A must-read for anyone who has ever rolled their eyes skyward and asked, "Hey God, is there like a road map to life?" Srinagar was dressed in her autumn best. Like blushing brides, the trees were clothed in bright red, their graceful limbs swaying eagerly forth in the wind, and then, as if suddenly recalling their modesty, holding back just a bit. Neerja's grandmother was busy in the kitchen. The smell of pickles enticed the chubby little girl and she walked in to watch the elderly woman create magic with her wrinkled hands. Every now and then, she would steal a piece of sour green mango, flick it into the air and catch it in her mouth. The taste was heaven... pure heaven. "Oh nani, I love you!" Neerja sighed. "This is the greatest treasure you could ever give me!" "Oh, no, my little one," replied her grandmother, beating masalas into a bowl to marinate the cut raw mango pieces. "Raw mangoes are not the greatest treasure." "I give up Nani! Tell me, tell me now, what is the greatest treasure?" Equal parts humorous and soul-stirring, the deeply personal and disturbingly honest I Inspire reveals how the human spirit is much, much bigger than anything it endures. Neerja Malik, a double cancer survivor, works with cancer patients to spread awareness. She was instrumental in setting up the Apollo Cancer Support Group at the Apollo Specialty Hospital, Chennai. She is also the trustee of the NGO "Sankalpa" that works at providing free education to the girls. Megha Bajaj is the acclaimed author of Thank You, Cancer!, Apurva Vichar and Yes I can Write.
