

(Mobile pdf) Innovative Fiscal Policy and Economic Development in Transition Economies (Routledge Studies in the Modern World Economy)

Innovative Fiscal Policy and Economic Development in Transition Economies (Routledge Studies in the Modern World Economy)

Aleksandr V Gevorkyan

*ebooks | Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook

 Download

 Read Online

#4000817 in eBooks 2013-07-03 2013-07-03 File Name: B006LMNGMA | File size: 27.Mb

Aleksandr V Gevorkyan : Innovative Fiscal Policy and Economic Development in Transition Economies (Routledge Studies in the Modern World Economy) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Innovative Fiscal Policy and Economic Development in Transition Economies (Routledge Studies in the Modern World Economy):

This book explores the problems of fiscal policy as an instrument of economic and social development in the modern environment, primarily focusing on the transition economies of Eastern Europe, Caucasus, and Central Asia. Evaluating the transformational experience in these countries, this work meets a need for critical analysis in the aftermath of the 1990s market liberalization reforms, of current trends and to outline the roadmap for future development.

About the Author Aleksandr V. Gevorkyan is Assistant Professor of Economics at the Peter J. Tobin College of Business in St. John's University. He is a professional economist with experience in macroeconomic analysis and financial markets. He has also taught financial economics and economic development at Columbia University and New York University, The New School and MBA concentrations at St. John's University and Long Island University. Dr. Gevorkyan has published in academic journals and reference volumes on international financial economics, macroeconomic policy, sovereign debt, labor migration and post-socialist transformation. He holds Ph.D. in Economics from The New School in New York.