Written in a lively and appealing reporter style. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By arun tikmani Good Reading! 7 of 9 people found the following review helpful. Excellent By Gabriel Torres I am really proud that Harrington House is republishing all of Max Gunther's book. This one talks about people that became rich is a relatively short period of time, and what set them apart from the crowd. Published originally in 1973, it still contains very useful insights.

In this book you will meet three dozen impatient people. They weren't satisfied with the slow, plodding, money-saving route to financial security, the safe route that most of us feel stuck with. They wanted instant wealth - and they got it. As Max Gunther points out, our folklore frowns on the idea of quick money. As in the fable about the race between a tortoise and a hare. "In the fable, the hare loses. The stories in this book are not fables. They are true. In these stories, the hares win." They are a richly varied lot, these happy hares. Gunther opens with a few dazzling millionaire legends, such as the man who invented Monopoly. You'll then meet fascinating characters such as: Harvey Shuster, who beat the stock market; Howard Brown, who decided to be rich and became a multi-millionaire within three years; and a group of men who made fast fortunes on fads such as the Hula Hoop and the Frisbee. These stories illustrate that the dream of quick money isn't such a ridiculous dream after all. Read these tales about hares who have won and when you have, maybe you'll decide to run with them.
