From Springer : Internationalisation of European ICT Activities: Dynamics of Information and Communications Technology before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Internationalisation of European ICT Activities: Dynamics of Information and Communications Technology:

The internationalisation of information and communication has accelerated since the 1990s in Europe and worldwide. Taking a close look at the empirical analysis of competitive trade positions, trends in foreign direct investment and the internationalisation of research and development in ICT brings many new insights about the expansion in the EU's most dynamic sector. Moreover, the analysis discusses case studies on key players in ICT and suggests major policy
