From Zed Books : Poverty and Water (International Studies in Poverty Research) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Poverty and Water (International Studies in Poverty Research):

Rarely has such a contentious and complex issue emerged in twenty-first century development as that of water. In this book, co-editors David Hemson, Kassim Kulindwa, Haakon Lein, and Adolfo Mascarenhas use a global spread of case studies to illustrate that water is not simply an issue of physical scarcity, but rather a complex and politically-driven issue with profound future implications, both in the developing world and outside it. The book argues that for the international community to achieve the Millennium Development Goals, governments must step in to protect the rights of the poor. Here, the links between poverty and access to clean water are explored with an eye to political reform that can end the exploitative policies of big business and help to shape a more equitable world for all.

About the Author David Hemson is a researcher who works within an emancipatory and developmental paradigm. Kassim Kulindwa is a senior research fellow and lecturer in economics at the Economic Research Bureau at the University of Dar es Salaam. Haakon Lein is an associate professor in the Department of Geography at the Norwegian University of Science and Technology. Adolfo Mascarenhas, was the first Tanzania Director of the Bureau of Resource Assessment and Land Use Planning (BRALUP). He is also the founder and director of the Institute of Resource Assessment at the University of Dar es Salaam.
